Spring Air Heating & Cooling Keeps “Extreme Makeover: Home Edition” Family Warm

TYLER, Texas (November 3, 2011) — Behind the scenes of the popular ABC TV show “Extreme Makeover: Home Edition” is a donation from American Standard Heating & Air Conditioning installing independent dealer Spring Air Heating & Cooling. The Jacksonville, Ore. based dealer supplied and installed a state-of-the-art geothermal heating and cooling system in the new home of the McPhail family from Medford, Ore.

At the head of the McPhail family are C.J. and Lindsay McPhail, who started the Southern Oregon chapter of Sparrow Clubs, a nonprofit organization that helps children with medical issues. The McPhails have three young sons, two of whom have been diagnosed with autism. While their previous home in Medford was located near extended family, it had an outdated electrical system, poor plumbing and no heat in certain parts.

“In their old house, the McPhail family was forced to use space heaters, which can consume a lot of energy and heat only one room at a time,” said Jared Murray, president of Spring Air Heating & Cooling. “We installed a new geothermal system from American Standard that will keep this deserving family’s home comfortable throughout the year. Geothermal heating and cooling is extremely efficient, which will allow the McPhails to use less energy and potentially save on their heating and cooling bills.”

Spring Air Heating & Cooling installed the geothermal system in the McPhail’s new home in September 2011 and the episode featuring the family aired on October 28, 2011.
